

CAN YOU HELP?

AN INVESTIGATION INTO CLINICIAN'S JUDGEMENT OF ANXIETY DISORDER TREATMENT

We are looking for clinicians to participate in research to help us better understand CBT treatment for anxiety. We are looking for qualified clinicians who are providing CBT intervention for anxiety to adult patients. The research involves an online task including watching a video and filling in an online questionnaire, it takes approximately 20 minutes to complete.

This study has received ethical approval from the University of Oxford Central University Research Ethics Committee (CUREC). Approval Reference: R93179/RE001

THE RESEARCHERS

Start the study

If you are interested and/or for more information please contact Nicola Roche, Trainee Clinical Psychologist, at the Oxford Centre for Clinical Psychology training and Research by emailing the address below or by scanning the QR code above. There is no obligation to take part.

nicola.roche@psy.ox.ac.uk

